The petition to the Lieutenant governor regarding the St. Patrick separate school district No. 11, Prince Albert, refers to in the Bulletin of 28th of September has been replied to by a petition from the trustees of the said district to the Lieutenant governor setting forth that the same was organized under the old school ordinance, with eight Catholic children which were more than the average of the separate law, that instead of $1,000 their teacher is only paid $500 of which the government pay 70 per cent and also that the value of their assessable property is double the value stated. They also state that if their school district is discontinued that they have the means to continue the school without government aid and would do so. Great regret is also expressed that any attempt has been made which might create bad feeling in the district.

THE Lethbridge News contains a column editorial on the prairie fire question. This is a vital one for our southern neighbors, as frequently ranches are swept by fires in the fall, leaving nothing for the cattle to subsist on through the winter. The News suggests as a remedy that, first, a clause be inserted in the lease contracts, forbidding the leasing from the government to protect their ranges by a system of fire guards. Second, that railroads be compelled to plough guard rows between two hundred and fifty feet from each side of the track, and third, that the assembly protect the unoccupied areas by a grant from the public monies for that purpose. It is claimed that guards could be made for $3 per mile. This may be a good scheme for the plain country of the south, but in the wooded districts each person will have to take the steps needed to protect and save his own property.

SOME time ago a statement was published in the Saskatchewan of Prince Albert, and noticed by the Bulletin, to the effect, that a separate school district had been organized and a school run in which there was only $1,500 assessable property. The trustees of St. Patrick separate school district, the one referred to, denied the truth of it and claimed to have $2,500 assessable property and enough heads of families and school children to organize and start a school. In the issue of the Saskatchewan of the 15th inst. a letter is published over the signatures of the trustees of the public school district, within which the separate school is located, in which they claim that the original statements made were correct, and that at the time the district was organized there were not the amount of property held by Roman Catholics claimed, and there were only three heads of families, while the law requires four. Even so the contention of St. Patrick separate school is correct it will only give them $25.00 of taxes to run their school with for the year and pay 30 per cent of the teacher's salary.

THERE is an exhibition at R. McKernan's butcher shop a hive of honey containing two frames full of solid comb, filled with very thick honey of a most delicious flavor. The size of each rack is 18x17x1 inches and contains 75 pounds each of honey. They were taken from the hive of J. W. Rowles of this place and certainly "beats anything ever seen in any country as claimed by Mr. Rowles who is an old hand in the business.

The result of this season's experience by Mr. Rowles and Mr. Henderson with bees, effectually settles the question of bee culture in this country. Racks containing 75 pounds of prime home made from the wild hives of the prairie is sufficient proof of the capabilities the west possesses in this respect, and in addition to the superior class of honey made there was a good supply of it. Each hive goes into winter's quarters with 25 pounds. More than they are likely to need. Last winter one hive that started the winter with 20 pounds came out with 18 pounds, and this is every chance of these gentlemen having a good supply of surplus honey to dispose of in the spring. The original swarms have been very prolific, and every thing in their experience go to show that this country is well adapted for bees, supplying plenty of food for the bees, and having a favorable climate for preserving the swarms.

J. McLeod arrived yesterday with freight for W. J. Walker and F. Rowland for Brown & Curry.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, OCT. 26, 1889.

RAILROADS FOR EDMONTON

After many years weary waiting it seems as though the people living along the Saskatchewan river are at last to have railroad communication with the outside world. The settlers here have had their hopes raised so many times by charters granted to companies to build into this country, and promises made, only to be disappointed in their expectations, that it would be an unpardonable cruelty to again hold forth hopes that were not pretty sure of realization. The greatest disappointment was when the main line of the C. P. R. instead of following the route at first decided on along the North Saskatchewan river, as the most suitable, was abandoned for some unknown reason, for the one now followed over the bare plains of the south. Last year they again were doomed to disappointment when the promises made and expectations entertained of the Great Northern road from Calgary failed to materialize. It is then no wonder that every one here take with a grain of salt any newspaper reports about railroads coming into this district. The movements of some of the great railway companies this fall have however revived the hopes of many, and with some have been sufficient to persuade them that the waters of the North Saskatchewan will be tapped by a line or lines of railway before 1890 closes, and Prince Albert and Battleford, and soon after Edmonton brought within a few hours travel of the centres of business and population in the east. The first move in this direction was made by the C. P. R. getting control of and beginning work on the R. & L. L.; the road that was so heavily subsidized by the Dominion government last winter. So rapidly has this road been pushed, that the assumption made is warranted, that it will be built to Saskatoon before Christmas and a bridge built over the South Branch this winter ready for operations on the north side in the early spring. The next move was by the Great Northwest Central, the successor to the old Souris & Rock Mountain road, in connection with which there has been more boodling than any other in the west. The directors of this company claim that they have sold out to a syndicate of English capitalists who would at once go on with its construction. Some color was given to this statement by work commencing at Brandon, and now there are enough men at work to complete the first fifty miles west this fall. The company state they will make every arrangement this winter to vigorously push the line on to Battleford next year. From this it will be seen that railway connection with the waters of the Saskatchewan at Prince Albert, by the C. P. R. and at Battleford, by the Great Northwest Central, is almost a certainty within the next twelve months. The Northern Pacific it now appears is moving in the same direction. For some time it has been the desire of this corporation to form an alliance with some road that would enable it to reach the Atlantic seaboard. Such an ally has been found, American papers state, with the G. T. R. As is well known the latter road has never been able to secure an entrance to the great Saskatchewan wheat belt on which it for many years has been casting longing eyes, owing to the monopoly clause in the C. P. R. charter: now happily removed. These two great roads are now said to have entered into or are about to enter into, an alliance whereby they will virtually become parts of one system, extending from ocean to ocean and in strong competition with the C. P. R. throughout its entire length and particularly in the Canadian Northwest. Both these lines are hereditary enemies of the C. P. R. and together will form a very strong rival. The N. P. has completed a line to Brandon from Morris, and at Brandon connects with the Great Northwest Central, while the latter road is building through the same territory, the former must of necessity past over in pushing its system into the northwestern country, from Brandon. Now the probabilities are that the Northwest Central people intend completing their line and then selling out to the highest bidder, or it may be sold before its completion. This is borne out by Mr. Oids, a magnate of the C. P. R. who stated the other day that in such an event their would be lively competition between his road and the N. P. both of which are known to be hankering after it. The C. P. R. will have to bid high however to secure it from the N. P. backed by the money of the G. T. R. Even if the Central were to remain independent it would have to grant running powers over its line to one or both of the great roads and it would be more profitable to discriminate in favor of the one that will make it part of its trunk line, than favor that which would only use it as a feeder to its main line. The C. P. R. people now say that they intend to head off this scheme of the Northwest Central by extending their Regina road at once to Edmonton. If the N. P. can in any way assist the Central by money or freight arrangements it will be to its interests to do so, so that as the situation now stands next year will likely witness a race for Edmonton between the C. P. R. and what will practically be the N. P. in alliance with the Central, and through here to the Yellowhead pass and Peace River country. Instead of one local road running in from Calgary, there are likely to be the two strongest railway corporations in America crossing the North Saskatchewan at or near Edmonton within the next two years and in any event there will be one here within that time. What effect this will have on the prosperity of this district cannot be predicted. Everything seems to warrant the belief that Edmonton district is in the eve of a development and prosperity equal to the expectations of the most sanguine. The attention of outsiders is being directed to the fertile belt of the Saskatchewan as never before. It is being written up in journals in England, America and Canada and the reports taken back by the delegates who were here last summer are most favorable and will bear great fruit. With a climate, second to none in America, with gold, platinum and coal in our immediate vicinity, and petroleum and salt in abundance farther north, with a soil of almost fabulous richness, with wood, water and prairie land, and all the conditions needed to grow the best No. 1 hard wheat, this part of our great national heritage will in the next few years take strides forward in population, wealth and importance that few now dream of. Those who are now settled in the country will if wise prepare to reap the rich harvest that awaits them in the next few years. New settlers coming in will require seed grain and flour as well as horses and cattle, and the many things required from farmer and merchant during the first year, in a new country. And those best able to supply them, will do the best business. The local market thus created will absorb all the produce raised here for some time, and this, together with the market our flour will have on the Pacific and in the Orient will effectually solve the market for grains problem.

Sweeping charges has been made by United States officials against Canadian lumbermen for pillaging the forests of Northern Minnesota and along the water ways of the Lake of the Woods, Rainy River and Lake and contiguous points to supply the mills at Rat Portage, Norman and Keewatin.

A constable of Keewatin shot two men in discharge of his duty who were trying to release a prisoner he had locked up. One was killed and the other badly wounded.

THE LATE SENATOR HARDISTY.

Calgary Tribune: The late Mr. Hardisty was born at Moose Factory, James Bay, about fifty nine years ago, his father being a native of the South of England, but being engaged in the H. B. Co's. service. At an early age he was sent to Red River, now Winnipeg, with his two brothers, and was educated at what has since developed into St. John's college by a Mr. McCallum, of whom he often spoke very highly. At the age of seventeen he entered the H. B. Co's. service and was sent first to Lake Manitoba, and afterwards to various posts, such as Carlton, Prince Albert, Edmonton, etc. On the 20th of September, 1865, he was married to the eldest daughter of the late Rev. Geo. McDougall, then Methodist missionary at Victoria on the North Saskatchewan. His rise in the Company's service was very rapid, and nearly twenty years ago he was made a chief factor of the company. Since that time he has resided chiefly at Edmonton, with the exception of two years, when he lived at Calgary. About two years ago he was made inspecting chief factor of the company, a position which had remained vacant since the resignation of the Hon. Robert Hamilton, now of Peterboro, Ontario. Early in the spring of this year Mr. Hardisty bade his family good bye for the summer, to go on an inspection tour in the far north, and other districts. On September 20th he was at Prince Albert and telegraphed Mrs. Hardisty. From there he set out for Winnipeg, where he purposed being for a few weeks making his reports, and then his plans were formed to have his family meet him at Calgary on his way home, but just when he reached the railroad he was thrown from his conveyance and received fatal injuries.

During his life time he has seen many changes in the great Northwest, and we believe we are safe in saying that no book has been written on the country of which the writer did not obtain a great deal of his information from Mr. Hardisty. No man knew the country better. No man within the borders of this great country had a greater number of friends, and no man that ever lived in the country has done more for his fellow creatures by whom he was surrounded than Mr. Hardisty. He will be much mourned in many homes of the rich and great both in the east and in the old country; but he will also be mourned to a greater degree among the half breeds and Indians in this country, to whom he was at all times the kindest of friends. Of his brothers and sisters five survive him, viz: Lady Smith of Montreal, Mrs. McPherson of Morley, Mrs. Ferris in the far north, Mr. Geo. Hardisty at Edmonton, and another brother in Montreal. He was one of those men of whom it can justly be said: "He bore the character of a blameless life."

The two Dakota's have gone prohibition it seems at the late elections with substantial majorities, so that the constitutions of the States of North and South Dakota will forbid the manufacture or sale of intoxicants within their limits. It is in fact part of their constitutional law. They have done this in face of the statements so persistently made that in the neighboring States of Iowa and Kansas the prohibitory law has been a failure. As a matter of fact the law is not a failure and the people of Dakota were so fully convinced of this that notwithstanding that the whole power and influence of the whiskey organizations of the United States were thrown in with the liquor interest of Dakota to prevent the adoption of this part of the constitution, they have declared for the prohibition of the liquor traffic in these new States. It is only another instance of the growth of temperance sentiment in the west. Iowa, Kansas, the Indian territory and North and South Dakota are now under prohibition. In Manitoba the local option clause of the license law has been adopted by the municipalities wherever submitted and there is now a campaign in progress to place the whole province, not excepting Winnipeg, under prohibitory law by adopting this local option clause. Assinibola is admitted to be overwhelmingly in favor of prohibition with the chances in favor of Alberta going the same way, so it will be seen that the west is becoming more and more in favor of the enacting and enforcing a law that will outlaw and drive from the country the liquor traffic. If Nebraska, which votes for the constitutional amendment next year carries it there will be a prohibition belt extending from the Canadian boundary to Texas.

Matterson the Australian won the three mile race on the Thames against Bibber the Englishman.

THE EXHIBITION.

The exhibition held last week could not be called, in many respects, as great a success as those formerly held here, or that it would have been this year if sufficient interest had been taken in it. Without the hearty co-operation of the farmers and citizens, with the directors, no exhibition of this kind can be made a success, and unless it is made a success it is practically useless, and may become an evil, by conveying a false impression of the wealth and capabilities of the country. There were just as good and possibly better stock left at home by many farmers as those exhibited by others. Any one, for instance, who has gone through this district and seen the large number of fine hogs would be surprised at not seeing one exhibited. It was but little better in the cattle exhibit. Two cows, two yoke of oxen, etc., is no showing for this district with its hundreds of as fine grade cattle as ever roamed a pasture; and to a certain extent the same could be said of nearly every class on the entry paper with the exception of horses and one or two others. There were no less than 58 articles for which there was only one exhibitor, and some in which there were none at all. This is not as it should be and as it would be, if every thing was all right. There is something wrong somewhere and it should be the business of the members of the society to see what it is, and make it right before the next exhibition. No doubt the smallness of the prizes offered had something to do with it as many consider it not worth while to go to the necessary trouble to prepare exhibits for the chance of winning so small a prize. The exhibition is not directly a money making institution but yet to make it a success prizes large enough to inspire keen competition should be offered. If however enough money can not be secured for this, lessen the number of classes or articles for which prizes are now given and instead of spreading it over so many in such small sums give larger ones to the most important classes by cutting off altogether the unimportant, and encourage the merchants and others to supplement the prize list by giving special prizes, of which there were none whatever offered this year. If all the 90 members of the society that possibly could would attend the annual meeting and see for themselves what was being done, and encourage and assist the few on whose shoulders the burdens have hitherto fallen, it would be a long step in the right direction. And if the business of the society has not been satisfactorily performed, or if the policy pursued during the past year or two has not been the correct one, they would be in the place and position to make in right by the election of officers and directors who would more nearly represent their views and who would throw the needed energy and spirit into the work of the society; and also let the directorate, for the coming year, know that they will have the hearty support and co-operation of the members in their work. If this is done, next year the exhibition will be one to be proud of, and not, as it was this fall, neither an honor to the society, or a correct representation of the resources of the district.

The government reports of Manitoba show the average wheat yields of that province to have been, in 1883, 26.69 bushels; 1884, 22.31 bushels; 1885, 20.81 bushels; 1886, 15.33 bushels; and 1887, 27.7 bushels. The Dakota yields during the same period according to the report of the statistician of the U.S. agricultural department at Washington, were: 1883, 16 bushels; 1884, 14.5 bushels; 1885, 12.2 bushels; 1886, 11.5 bushels; 1887, 14.3. In Minnesota the average yields were: 1883, 16 bushels; 1884, 14.5 bushels; 1885, 12.2 bushels; 1886, 11.5 bushels; 1887, 14.3 bushels.

FAREWELL ADDRESS.

On Monday evening last quite a number of the friends of Inspector Casey met in Ross's Hall to convey to him their regrets at the departure of himself and family from the place. C. H. Connon occupied the chair and read the following address.

ADDRESS.

To Henry S. Casey, Esquire, J. P.
Inspector, Northwest Mounted Police,
Edmonton, Alberta.

DEAR SIR:—We, the undersigned citizens of Edmonton, learning with regret that you are about to take your departure from our midst, desire to express the warm feelings of friendship and esteem that we feel for you. For the last two years and a half you have occupied a prominent position among us in Edmonton, and have been charged with the execution of important duties, which you have uniformly fulfilled with advantage to the public generally and with credit to yourself and to the organization with which you are connected.

We know that you have had many difficulties to contend with in carrying out the duties of your position, but we are aware that by your patience, tact, and assiduity you have ever been found equal to the most arduous exertions on behalf of the interests of this community. Your valuable co-operation has been ungrudgingly given in all public enterprises wherein your assistance was sought. In our amusements and the relaxations of social life and enjoyment you have always joined heartily and acceptably. And in our business relations we have always found you to be prompt and painstaking.

We deplore the necessity that takes you away from this community and shall feel your loss greatly. We trust that in your new sphere of action you will not forget the many warm friends that you leave behind in Edmonton, who will on their part watch your future career with the same kindly and sympathetic interest they now feel for you.

In conclusion we heartily wish both for yourself, personally and officially, and for your amiable wife, Mrs. Casey, and children a most prosperous and pleasant future. And if your duty or inclination should ever bring you back again among us we shall have pride and pleasure welcoming you on your return to the garden of the Northwest Territories.

Edmonton, Alberta,
October 21st, 1889.
[Signed.] JOHN A. McDUGALL, J.P.
JOAN CAMERON,
And 62 others.

Inspector Casey in a few well chosen words responded, expressing his regret at leaving the many friends he had here, and said he would always remember with pleasure his sojourn in Edmonton, and would do all he could to bring the advantages of the place before the people he might meet. After short complimentary speeches had been made by Donald Ross, Chas. L. Shaw, and others, the gathering broke up.
